MANNER is one of the principal external graces of character. It is the ornament of action, and often makes the commonest offices beautiful by the way in which it performs them. It is a happy way of doing things, adorning even the smallest details of life.

THE man who threw the bomb at Sage had none of the popular vices. There is authority, however, for the statement that the man without vices has no virtues.

CUBAN INDEPENDENCE.

Revolutionist Nearly Ready to Cast of the Spanish Yoke—The Blow Will be Soon.

NEW YORK, Feb 26.—The World this morning publishes an article declaring that another revolution is on foot to liberate Cuba. Preparations, it says, are in active progress in this and other cities, as well as upon the island itself. When it will be is yet unknown, but from all indications the plans of the leaders are nearly ripe, and the first blow may be struck within a few days. The movement is stated upon good authority to be the largest and most complete organization ever inaugurated for Cuban independence. There are said to be 5000 Cuban patriots in this country ready to join in the war. In Cuba the revolutionist party is also actively preparing for the outbreak and when the word is given the forces on Spanish and United States soil will act in conjunction for the overthrow of the Spanish yoke. The plans have been in progress for several months. New York has been made the headquarters, but so much secrecy has been maintained that the news of the contemplated uprising only leaked out yesterday. Then it became known that for several months past meetings of Cubans have been held in the cities of Tampa and Key West, Fla., and during the past six weeks in New York, for the purpose of organizing an army and raising funds to assist the residents of Cuba, who are dissatisfied with the Spanish government. In New York two revolutionist clubs have been formed. Another club will be organized next Sunday.

MONEY CONFERENCE.

England Will Join the United States, Germany and France in One.

WASHINGTON, Feb 26.—Great Britain will positively join the United States, Germany and France in calling an international bi-metallic money conference on condition that the British representatives will not pledge their government in advance to abide by the decision of the conference. The fact that England has expressed a willingness to join in a conference toward the recognition of silver money, even with a cautious condition coupled to it, was regarded in financial circles as of the greatest importance. It is said that the conference will be announced soon after the arrival of Secretary Foster in London. The official announcement of the conference will, it is expected, bring about a lively bull market, for all silver scares will vanish until the conference finishes its work, and if silver is recognized, capitalists will know what to depend on. It is stated that Secretary Foster, when he arrives in London, will call on Mr. Goschen, the chancellor of the exchequer and will likely discuss the subject of the conference with him, but the interview will be entirely informal and incidental.

WHITE CAPS

Attack a Mute and Get Worsted in the Encounter.

ENGLISH, Ind., Feb. 26—Particulars of an attempted white capping of Robert Underhill, at Branchville, Perry county, are only beginning to reach here. Underhill is a deaf mute and was attacked by five men By the aid of his wife and sister the assailants were fought off until he secured an ax, by which he committed damage yet unknown. Ed Keefe, a young man of unsteady habits, is missing, and Lewis Falkenburg is lying in bed badly wounded in the shoulder blade. He says he was kicked by a horse, though others think the wound might have been made with an ax. Underhill is badly wounded in the head, face and neck with shot and will doubtless die. Falkenburg will be crippled for life.

A MYSTERIOUS LETTER.

It is Directed to a Lady and Contained a Large Sum of Money.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Feb. 26. The postoffice authorities here are engaged in unravelling a mystery. Shortly before New Years a letter was mailed to a lady in Franklin. It was made up of letters from a newspaper and so arranged as to read "Will you be convinced. Wish you a happy New Year." It contained a large sum of money in United States greenbacks. The lady to whom it was addressed refused to receive it and it was sent to the dead letter office, whence it was forwarded here for investigation. Unless its sender appears, the money will be turned into the national treasury.

ANOTHER MILLION.

John D. Rockefeller Makes Another Gift.

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—The university of Chicago yesterday had another gift of $1,000,000 added to the endowment. John D. Rockefeller tendering that sum in 5 per cent. gold bonds to be handed over to the trustees with accrued interest March 1. The giver reserves the right to designate the expenses to which the income shall be applied. The letter concludes: "I make this gift as a special thank offering to Almighty God for returning health."

SAMUEL OF POSEN.

The Jury Disagree and a New Trial Will Result.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb 26—The jury in the M. P. Curtis murder trial has disagreed. It stood 6 to 6 for conviction and two for acquittal.

A Town Burning Up.

DENVER, Col., Feb. 26.—It is reported that the town of Lakin, Colorado on the Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, is burning up. It is impossible now to get particulars. Lakin has about 500 inhabitants, and is situated west of La Junta a few miles.

BLOODSHED PROBABLE.

The State of Colorado Will Sell at Auction the Land of Over One Hundred Squatters.

CANON CITY, Colo., Feb 26—Circle is filled to overflowing with visitors from every part of Colorado to attend the auction of state land today. At 2:30 o'clock the train arrived bearing Governor Routt and other state officials. The train carried seventeen cars, with every available seat occupied and standing room at a premium. The most intense excitement prevails among the squatters, who have leased under Wason and have made improvements. Loud threats are made and the action of the state is denounced in no uncertain terms. The least is openly made that the whole state may sell at auction and give a title which may be good in time. Nothing else than Winchesters, carried by militiamen, can give possession. One hundred and two leases will contest the delivery of the lots. At a set then meeting last evening, with 800 or 900 present, resolutions were adopted that the settlers were entitled to their lands at minimum appraisement values, as against speculators and that the lots should be sold only to actual settlers. Bloodshed today is probable.

THE GREAT PREACHER.

Talks Politics and Says it is a Matter of Loaves and Fishes.

CHICAGO, Feb 26.—"Political issues and principles in the coming campaign will consist simply of the question. Who will fill the offices?" said Rev. T. De Witt Talmage at the Grand Pacific yesterday. "Neither party has any longer any real, well-defined principle or policy. They make the tariff an issue merely to have something to disagree about. The republicans claim to favor the high protective tariff idea and the democrats pose as champions of free trade. But when it comes to a declaration of principles in their platforms it is seen that neither are the republicans high protectionists nor the democrats free traders. The democrats want a tariff and the republicans are for lower duties. It is all a matter of patronage and the 'loaves and fishes' overshadow every other principle. American politics, so far as statesmanship and vital principles go, can not fall much lower than it is now.

"It is a difficult matter to say who will be nominated. Cleveland is the ideal leader of the western democrats and they will support him. He is not the deserted, discredited fallen idol that Tammany would make him out to be. He has loyal friends by the thousand in the west and they will support him."

CHILD RECOVERED.

Maud Agnar, Who Was Kidnapped a Year Ago, Returned Home.

BELVIDERE, N. J., Feb. 26—Little nine-year-old Maud Agnar, who was kidnapped last fall by her father from her mother's house, in Phillipsburg, has been found by her mother in the custody of an old couple named Coddington, who live near Millington, N. J. The child was only half clad when found and says she has been terribly misused since she was taken from her mother. She was poorly fed, she says, and compelled to drudge from morning till night. For the slightest spirit of misconduct by her she was severely beaten by those in whose care she was.

THE PLAINTIFF WINS.

Savage & Danforth Get $2,000 From William Foster.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Feb 26—In supreme court yesterday rendered a verdict in the case of Savage & Danforth vs. William Foster, jr., awarding the plaintiff $2,000. Foster was sued as ex-president of the New York, Rutland and Montreal railroad, to recover money expended for repairs on the Lebanon Springs road, purchased by the former company. This suit was brought under the statute of the state of New York, which makes a stockholder liable for debts of his company.

TEXAN SHOT.

A Saloon Row in Indian Territory Ends in Death.

ARDMORE, I. T., Feb. 26—During a quarrel in a saloon last night Charles Van Horn, of Dallas, Texas, was shot and instantly killed by Deputy Marshal John Couch. The deceased only arrived in town last evening and was unarmed. The cause of the shooting is unknown, but it is supposed to have been the result of a saloon row.

Rendlee's Ice Crop Ruined.

AUGUSTA, Maine, Feb. 26—The rain which began to fall at midnight has further damaged the ice in the Kennebec river. The ice is so honeycombed and full of water that a good fall of rain will clear the river of its ice from Augusta to the sea.

MRS. DR. DRIVER remains quite ill.

"I AM THE STATE."

"There is Only One Ruler in Germany and I am That Ruler," Says Emperor William.

BERLIN, Feb 25—The citizens of Berlin have passed one of the most restless nights in the memory of the present generation. The echoes of yesterday's outing before the castle of Emperor William, of Germany, at the end of the Unter den Linden, spread not only far into the night, but the embers of the affair were still glowing this morning. From sunset until sundown encounters between the police and the rioters continued at intervals in different parts of the city, mostly, however, in the eastern districts. Heads were broken right and left, and the police captured many more prisoners. Throughout the night the entire police force of the city was kept on duty and in several quarters detachments of troops were kept under arms. It is difficult to picture the state of wild excitement and and amazement which prevails here, and, according to the newspapers of this city, in all European capitals. Such an occurrence as that witnessed on the Unter den Linden yesterday would not have caused much comment had it happened in Paris or even in London, where encounters between the police and large bodies of the people are not infrequent. But here in Berlin, the capital, ground under the presence of soldiers and military police, the rioting of yesterday attaches points of very great significance. It revealed, as if by a thunder clap, the fact that the emperor is most unpopular with the masses and that the people are beginning to feel convinced that the damning words recently uttered by the emperor must be the vaporings of a crowned madman and that the ruler of the German empire is suffering from dementia. This is the conclusion that people here are gradually coming to, and there is no doubt that the empire is in danger. It is not intended by this to intimate that it is publicly able that the empire will soon be swept away, by the fates of a revolutionary movement. The time for that upheaval has not arrived. But the mutterings of a threatening storm are heard in the distance, and the first flashes of lightning were seen on the Unter den Linden yesterday afternoon, and the rumbling of the thunder was heard from night until morning. It is felt on all sides that the emperor, by announcing practically to the Brandenburgers that he had flung down the gauntlet to the people, and that he would drive from their homes and into the exile of emigration all those who opposed his will, gave the signal for the struggle between himself, as "I am the state," and the people of the empire who are asserting their rights to have their wrongs redressed by their sovereign. The speech, it is recalled, is a peculiar Brandenburg banquet, exclaimed, "There is only one ruler in the country: I am the ruler, and I will endure no other," and it is remembered that at Munich, a short time ago, he wrote in the visitor's book "Supremæ lex regis voluntas," (the supreme law of the land is the king's will.) These and other such sayings credited to the emperor have not passed unheeded in Germany and have left rankling sores in the hearts of the people. It was noted exclusively in these dispatches yesterday that the emperor watched the rioting from the windows of an apartment on the first story of the castle. It is now added that he smiled, though his face was deadly pale, when he saw the people beaten down beneath the swords of the military police. Everything that it is possible to bring up against the emperor is consequently, now being recited and revamped, bunched up and reprinted in more glowing colors by the socialists and others who feel bitter against the German emperor and people who say that if he imagines himself equal to the diety, time will show that he has made a very great mistake in so imagining. The Vossich Zeitung, for instance, remarks that if all the discontented left the country nobody would be left but the Catholics and the Vorwarts, and expresses the opinion that if the emperor's invitation to emigrants is accepted the emperor would rule over a desert. The authorities during the night were greatly alarmed, and it was evident that they expected further disturbance would follow this morning.

In consequence, they took the greatest precautions to promptly suppress an additional rioting. The supposition of the police of the city that there would be more rioting was well founded for soon after the breakfast hour groups of angry people, enraged at the treatment they had been subjected to yesterday and during the night by the police began to gather in different parts of the city and discussed the riot, its object and its result and loud and deep were the curses hurled at the emperor and the police and they eagerly listened to the utterances of the socialist speakers, who seemed here, there and everywhere. But, strange to say, the latter, as a rule, advocated the adoption of the policy moderation. The first blow had been struck, they claimed, and the people should wait to give its effects before taking further action. At about noon a body of three or four hundred men gathered together and sang the "Marseillaise" after which their number having been considerably augmented, they marched through the Brandenburg Gate to the Unter den Linden shouting, "Give us work or bread," "Give us work or bread," "We and our families are starving." These cries were soon followed by the more alarming one, "To the castle," which was heard frequently and loudly yesterday about the same place. The majority of these men were simply unemployed workmen, but the advanced socialistic element was to be found among them in the direction of the movement. The cries mentioned were mingled with bitter denunciations of the emperor, of the police, of the authorities generally. When the rioters, then numbering about a thousand men, reached a spot well up the Unter den Linden, they joined in a loud shout of "To the castle," and led by a few men who seemed to be the leaders of this demonstration, they pushed on towards the emperor's castle. They had not gone far, however, when they were met by a strong force of police, who advanced upon them in a most determined manner. There was a short, sharp fight and the rioters were put to flight, melting away like snow beneath the sunshine. The police made a show of pursuing the rioters, but it was evident that the authorities were content with having dispersed them and that a regular pursuit was not on the program. There was not much real fighting during the encounter between the police and people. The engagement was very quickly over and the people were soon convinced that the authorities were completely masters of the situation.

AT COAL CREEK

The Miners Go Around Armed With Guns and Pistols and Ready for Outbreak at Any Time.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 26.—James B. Hawkin, member of the legislature from this county, who was elected at the labor platform, returned yesterday from Coal Creek. He talked with soldiers and miners alike and reports the condition very alarming. He said last night "The situation is very serious. About one half of the miners go around all the time with shot guns and Winchesters on their shoulders as if they were hunting squirrels. All carry pistols and make no secret of it. If you wake up any time at night you can hear a volley being fired. I interviewed at least twenty of the business men of Coal Creek and Briceville in regard to the miners filing on Fort Anderson last Thursday night and at other times. They were unanimous in saying that they believed it was the militia that done the firing themselves. I also talked to some of the officers. They claim the camp was being fired upon and a detail was sent out to arrest the parties shooting. The miners say if any of the militia number is ever shot by the soldiers they will rally 3,000 men and make a charge on Fort Anderson."

SLAVIN IN TOWN.

The King of Pugilists Hangs Up a $500 Purse for Any Two Local Men.

This morning the world famed fistic hero, Frank P. Slavin, arrived in this city and roomed at the Wayne. He had night spurred two local men at Findlay before a house packed from floor to dome, and then gave a capital and most scientific exhibition of three rounds' duration with his brother, Jack Slavin, a winner of ten fights, straight score.

Slavin is indeed a magnificent specimen of muscular humanity, standing six feet two inches and weighing 207 pounds. He last month passed his twenty-ninth birthday at Detroit. Born in Maitland, Australia, he has rapidly forced himself into the front rank of pugilism and on next Wednesday he has contracted to knock out an unknown at the Olympic Athletic club, New Orleans, whilst May 30th he fights the colored champion, Peter Jackson, the London, England, for $10,000.

Speaking to a reporter of this journal today Slavin said: "Yes you may bet it go that tonight at the Masonic Temple I will tackle any two men who may wish to measure swords with me and if I do not stop them in six rounds I will forfeit $500. You can see what a great, good thing it would be for a local man. If he stood up and did not stop for the the three rounds he would be able to command a very large salary in almost any part of the world."

Slavin is also to give a sparring exhibition with Jack in conjunction with Bill Thompson's company, entitled "The Congress of Celebrities." Mr. Fred Gallagher, associate editor and special correspondent of the sporting life, London is of the party to write up fights and other pastimes in America.

CAUGHT IN A BELT.

Chas. Houser Has a Narrow Escape From Death at Hoagland.

Chas. Houser, of the firm of Houser Bros.' binding works at Hoagland, Ind., had a narrow escape from death at that place several days ago. He had his hand caught in a pump belt, which wound his arm around the shaft and threw him over onto the large fly wheel, and the belt in turn caught him up and carried him around the main shaft, when he fell unconscious, cut and bleeding, alongside of the engine. Here he was found later by the fireman just as he had regained consciousness and was crawling out of his perilous position. He was helped out and Dr. Smith summoned, who dressed the wounds, which consisted of a bruised nose, cut in the forehead, and severing of the lower right eyelid, also a scalp wound three inches in length. He was taken to his home at English Lake, where he is now doing nicely.

R. C. Anderson of the Mount Vernon Bridge works, in Ohio, is in the city on business.

A CLEVER TRICK.

A Convict at the Northern Prison Nearly Escapes in a Car Load of Barrels.

Yesterday a green convict at the Northern Indiana penitentiary from Muncie came near escaping in a very clever, though often attempted manner. The Michigan City Dispatch gives this account of the affair: "The fellow is young and has only been wearing the stripes four or five days on a two years' sentence. He was employed with others in loading cars with barrels from the cooper contract, and this morning in filling a car the barrels piled on much in a manner as to form a pocket in the middle of the car. The convict observed this fact, and after the loading stepped to the end of the car and crawled through the slats into the aperture. He had on a rubber coat and had a citizen's cap in his pocket. He was not missed and was not observed by the yard or wall guards as the train pulled out of the gates, and would probably have escaped had he not moved about and disturbed the barrels. This was noticed by a switchman riding on the car, and when the train came to a standstill outside the wall the switchman went to the end of the car and investigated. He saw a pair of striped legs sticking toward him and at once knew that a convict was trying to escape, so he signaled the engineer to back up again and before the convict realized what was being done he was again inside the walls and the big gates had swung to on him. He was then ordered from his retreat and sent to the cooper shop, where he will have to make barrels for the balance of his term, instead of enjoying the freedom of the yard and light work. The convict evidently intended to remain on the car until night and then make good his escape.

THEY DID WELL.

Presentation of the "Two Crowns" by the St. Mary's Club.

The "Two Crowns," as presented by the St. Mary's Dramatic club, pleased an audience that nearly filled Library hall last evening. The play is a tragedy of the times of Arianism in Spain, at the beginning of the seventh century. Its production by the St. Mary's club brought out some splendid talent of the young actors, an evidence that the parts had been well studied under the direction of Rev. J. H. Oechtering. The different roles were assumed by the following: G. Miller, C. Snowberger, A. Alter, C. Weber, G. App, A. Reinhart, M. Noll, J. Dechemier, J. Reinhart, H. Zurbuch, M. Reinhard, G. Haffner, G. Zurbuch, A. Luley, P. Zurbuch, J. Schafer, A. Renz, H. King, J. Erlle, J. Rizing, J. Kessens, H. Miller, A. Augst, L. Ellert, E. Schellhamer, C. Schiemeyer, J. Shoenle, M. Schramm, F. Gocke.

The executive staff was as follows: President, Charles Snowberger; vice president, John Rissing; secretary, Joseph Kramer; treasurer, A. A. Reinhart; business committee, Henry Zurbuch, Alex. J. Renz, Martin Reinhart, Joseph Kramer; stage manager, John Schultz; property manager, Al Schirmeyer.

JUDGE BOTKIN

Decides to Let Some One Else Try the Kansas Murderers.

TOPEKA, Kas., Feb. 26—Judge Theodore Botkin arrived in Topeka this morning from Abilene. The judge announced that he had decided not to sit as judge in the case of the six men held for the murder of Sheriff Dunn. The announcement was entirely unexpected and created a sensation. The judge further announced that either a special judge or a judge pro tem would have to be selected. Events which have transpired in the judge's district in the past few days is the cause of his determination to hold court at any cost have been partially anywhere. Threats have been made by the friends and relatives of the prisoners to the effect that Judge Botkin would never be allowed to hold court in Spanish Lake again.

TO HASTEN LANDING.

Two Will Meet Ocean Steamers at Quarantine.

NEW YORK, Feb 26—The North German Lloyd Steam-ship company's agents announced this morning that the company has made arrangements to send a tug down to quarantine every morning in advance of the steamships arriving. The tug will take off the cabin passengers and their baggage so as to avoid the Health officer Jenkins has been making them a clean bill of health.

This course has been determined on owing to the fact that the Trave arrived at quarantine yesterday evening, but was not permitted to proceed to her dock until 10 this morning. The delay was caused by the large number of Russian emigrants on board.

Herman Fiegang of Steuben.
S. B. Kaler of Whitley.
W. W. Rockhill, secretary of the county central committee, was present, also numerous others as spectators, among whom were Captain Smith, of Kendallville, D. A. Fawcett, of the Lagrange County Democrat, M. V. B. Spencer, of Rochester, Hon. Robert Lowry, Judge C. M. Dawson, and the three candidates for congress, Hon. William F. McNagny, of Columbia City, J. M. Robinson and Hon. P. S. O'Rourke.

The convention will be held at Kendallville April 26th, at 2 p. m.

SECRETARY METCALFE.

The State Health Officer Spends a Day in Fort Wayne.

C. N. Metcalfe, secretary of the state board of health, is registered at the Rundall, having stopped off at Fort Wayne on his way home to Indianapolis after a visit in Michigan. Secretary Metcalfe, when seen by a SENTINEL reporter, expressed a surprise that the sanitary condition of the city is so good as it is when the city health officer has had no assistance. "I must compliment Dr. Metcalf, your health officer," said the secretary, "for the efficiency of his work. He has more responsibility than health officers in larger cities. I am surprised to find that Fort Wayne has no sanitary policeman. A health officer on a salary of $200 a year is not expected to do the duties of health officer and sanitary policeman, too, and yet Dr. Metcalf has had to do both. There is not a city in the state outside of Fort Wayne that has not a sanitary policeman." The secretary will leave tonight for Indianapolis.

JUVENILE SECRET SOCIETY.

Where Dues Go to Furnish Dime Novels and Tobacco.

A juvenile organization, consisting of forty lads ranging in ages from twelve to fifteen years, has its existence in this city. Meetings are held regularly and initiations are conducted under a secret code. The initiation fee is ten cents, and the dues five cents a week, the proceeds all being spent to keep the organization in dime novels and tobacco. The rendezvous where secret sessions are held is in a small building on Holman street, between Monroe and Clay streets.

High License Bill.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 26—Senator Gatch republican, introduced a high license and anti-prohibition substitute for the Grenwig bill today. It provides for $500 to a $1,000 license in counties voting for the same.

One of the best posted men on horses and cattle in this "neck of the woods" is David McKay, the manager of the Brookside farm, but his education on the subject of goats has been sadly neglected. He has, however, lately developed a creditable longing for more knowledge on the subject. With this end in view he made application to the grand lodge meeting to Summit City lodge, A. O. U. W., and was introduced to the goat last evening. The result of the meeting is not known outside of lodge circles. Mr McKay says that he looked kindly on Clydesdales and batted by Galloways but for a real knock-out in one round the A. O. U. W. goat beats them all hollow. "By jings, the wee creature has a knuckle neck."

Last Saturday evening trustee V. H. Muller, of Cedar Creek township, was presented with a very handsome office chair by his teachers, the occasion being his birthday. Mr. Muller, in the presentation speech complimented Mr. Muller highly on the acceptable manner in which he discharged his duties as trustee. A fine supper was afterwards served by Mrs. Muller and an enjoyable evening spent.

The board of governors of the Fort Wayne club will meet at the Wayne hotel Saturday evening.

Friday is a short month, but the house rent bill is just as big as it was for January.

Tomorrow the democrats of Noble county will select delegates to the congressional convention.

Chicago has 30,000 idle men. The trouble with Chicago is that she is growing in population too rapidly.

The workingmen of Germany are making a bold stand for their rights in that country. The spirit of liberty is spreading and crowned monarchs are trembling.

The grand assembly, Patrons of Industry, is holding an annual meeting at Goshen this week. Many of the members show a disposition to introduce politics, but the leaders are trying to steer clear of political entanglements.

Hon. Evan H. Hunt, of Ohio, has announced himself for delegate-at-large from Ohio to the national democratic convention, and says if he be appointed he will place Mr. Cleveland in nomination before the convention Mr. Hurd, who on Mr Cleveland two days ago, says the ex president is a candidate.

It is the opinion of democrats generally in Illinois that if Senator John M. Palmer were nominated by the democrats for president he would receive the electoral vote of that state. The state convention which is to assemble April 27 will undoubtedly send a solid delegation to the national convention instructed to vote as a unit for his nomination

Senator Voorhees has introduced in the United States senate a petition from the citizens of South Bend, Ind., praying that an amendment be made to the constitution of the United States preventing the passage by the senate of any law in regard to the establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or appropriating money for expenses of any churches, etc. He also presented a similar petition from the citizens of Brazil, Ind.

Senator Voorhees, in an interview at Washington says there was no contest between Hill and Cleveland at Terre Haute or any other place in Indiana, so far as he knows. In the choice of delegates last Saturday in Terre Haute the question was between Gray and Cleveland with the result that Gray carried six and Cleveland four. Governor Hill's name was not under consideration. Senator Voorhees says the democracy of Indiana will present the name of Governor Gray at Chicago for first place on the ticket.

The nervous people who are afraid of overcrowding may now cure themselves of the nervousness of ages of land in the United States, says the Kansas City Star, not quite one half has been surveyed, much less settled upon. It may be safely calculated that one half of the un surveyed land is arable, and it cannot be said that the other half is not arable, for as agriculture is carried on in China and some other of old settled countries of the earth, there is scarcely any land in the United States, with the exception of a few acres on the summit of Pike's Peak, that might not be made to produce something.

We notice that there is a call being published for the election of delegates from the county to the numerous democratic county conventions. We do not know whether this is official or not, as no formal notice has not been furnished with a copy of the call for publication, also he knowledge has the custom of the secretary of the democratic county central committee. If the call is official The Sentinel would be glad to give it a place in the city and county the democracy are interested in. The secretary of the committee, W W Rockhill, is one of the leading proprietors of the morning Journal and we suppose he desired the call for the exclusive use of his own paper—at least that is the way it looks to us.

The Sentinel made a request several months ago that the county commissioners and auditor publish, as the law directs, an itemized list of the allowances made by them each month. So far they have failed to do so. This matter might be made a subject for discussion at the coming county convention

The Democrats in the House this party are out for Hill for president They don't like the crowd he runs with They don't like his attitude toward rebel reform bills and other issues upon which the democratic party has taken advanced ground They concede his ability as a political manager and the wonderful success he has achieved in bringing himself to the front, but he is not the kind of a man we want for president of the United States.

THE TOWN TALK CLUB.

They Discuss City Affairs and Talk on a Candidate for Joint Senator.

The attendance at the meeting of the Town Talk club last night was the largest, so one of the members told me, since their banquet, which was held last Christmas eve, when their president, Major Zebulon Dudkins, had delivered his inaugural address and presented each one of the members with a box of cigars and an annual ticket to the horse races

The large attendance last night was due to the fact that the committee appointed to draw up the ordinance relative to the underground railroad to the police station was expected to report They reported through their chairman, the little red headed member, whose name I have not yet learned

He said they had drawn up the ordinance in the proper shape, but had failed to get it before the city council Tuesday night, because the members of that august body were too much excited about the overground street railroad and the rapid transit question. He thought, however, there wouldn't be much trouble about getting it through the council, because he had heard several of the councilmen who had read the outline of the scheme as given by The Sentinel in its report of the proceedings of last week's meeting of the club, say that it was a shame to hand drunks and other criminals through the streets to the police station in an open patrol wagon They had, he said, approved of the underground police street car line, and there would be no doubt about the ordinance being passed It must, however, be continued, be pressed to a vote before the spring elections, for then the club could spot the councilmen who opposed it and defeat their reelection at the poll.

The committee was instructed to press the ordinance upon the attention of the council at their next regular meeting and insist upon the immediate passage. It was thought best to add my name to the committee, because, being a newspaper man, I was supposed to have considerable influence with the members of the council A motion was put to that effect and carried, and the president, in placing me on the committee, said I had better make the speech to the council in advocacy of the ordinance, because I could explain the scheme and urge the necessity of its adoption in a more scholarly way than any of the other members of the committee

This matter disposed of, I thought the next thing in order would be my initiation I had, previous to leaving home for the hall, padded my back and legs with cotton, because I knew if the goat got to hunting that I would need a protection of that kind. I had also taken two or three extra doses of Perry Davis' pain killer, and at this point in the proceedings of the meeting, when I was expecting my initiation to once more, I felt sicky. They said we stood in great drops all over me and I could even feel the pegs in my boots pressing my feet But the society evidently hadn't got ready for my initiation yet, for when the chairman asked if any member had anything in propose for the good of the order, Bill Snifles arose and addressed the chair.

"I hadn't known before that he was a member of the club. He was a fellow who sort of hung around for free drinks and was never so happy as when a political campaign was on hand. He said he had been thinking for a long time that the members of this club ought to have some protection against the onslaughts that the city newspapers were making upon them.

"What do you mean?" asked the president

"I mean this," continued Snifles, getting excited, "that something ought to be done to prevent the newspapers from publishing in their accounts of the proceedings of the police court the names of the parties who have been arrested for minor offenses, such as drunks, visiting houses of questionable repute, crawling places, etc. All of us are liable to be caught in such affairs as these, and I for one don't propose to have my name disgraced by being published in a newspaper when I do happen to be out for a little fun It's nobody's business but our own, anyway. This is a matter just as important as an underground railroad to the police station, and I move, Mr. Chairman, that the society boycott every newspaper that publishes the name of fellows who are arrested for such offenses as I have stated. There is no necessity for it and besides it has a demoralizing effect on the community, 2 thing that's familiar with crime in all its forms. I think it a great deal worse than taking drunks to the police station in an uncovered patrol wagon"

I was trembling with rage all the time that Snifles was speaking. This was a clean slap at me. If he had come down on my toes with his No. 10 boots, he couldn't have made me madder, and I was just rising from my chair to reply, when somebody pulled me back by the coat tail, and a motion was made and carried to lay Snifles' motion on the table

Snifles was beaten but he wasn't crushed, for he was soon on his feet with another motion He said every member of the club must be aware of the fact that the elections were getting nearer every day Every time the sun sets at night and rises again in the morning he said we are that much closer to the time when we as American voters will be called upon to choose our state, county, state and national officials This club, you all know, has something to say about who these officers shall be I didn't pump you for your views now, but there is one that I do want to do, and that is to propose the name of a candidate for office who the club should support Every one within the sound of my voice knows the present services of our friend, Col. Shipsky I move you, Mr President, that this club nominate him as their candidate for joint senator of the counties of Allen and Whitley

I thought the roof would go off the building and the floor fall through during the next few minutes Everybody was on their feet, shouting, yelling, stamping "Col Shipsky for senator" "He's the man!" was the cry. Snifles was pecked up and carried around the room in triumph on the shoulders of several of the members Who order was restored the motion of Snifles was unanimously passed and the society adjourned for the night, which it was said Col. Shipsky had arranged for at a down town saloon, again forgetting in their excitement that I was to have been initiated as a member of the club

ON THE PACIFIC.

Commodore Foote Writes Interestingly from California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21, 1892

EDITOR SENTINEL:

Sister and I arrived here on the 6th of February from Salt Lake City, Utah, which is just 850 miles The journey seemed long to us, but before we reached Oakland, which place is opposite San Francisco, we were wishing for a longer journey. Coming over the American desert, which is several hundred miles, everything seemed alike, but after we left the junction and came nearer Sacramento then we began to see the sights, for we passed groves of orange trees, which is quite a nice sight, as are also the many lovely flowers and palm trees. At Oakland we crossed the bay. There they run the full train on a large ferry. The ferry or railway boat can carry thirty-eight cars at one time, and is considered of the largest ferry in the world and surely it is immense. It is three miles across the bay. We arrived all safe at San Francisco and are located at the Russ house, a very large hotel, as it is over 300 rooms, and is situat ed in the principal part of the city.

Sister and I are fulfilling an engagement here at Wigwam theatre, a very large theatre and shall remain three weeks longer We have seen many places of interest in and around the city. We also had a drive through Golden Gate park, which is a little over twelve hundred acres and is laid out most beautifully. The flowers therein are lovely, and next a drive to the Cliff house by the Pacific ocean. There you can see hundreds of seals swimming around and climbing up on high rocks out of the water. You can have a grand view all over the city from Sutro heights. There are many large buildings here and several large hotels, the Palace hotel, Baldwin and the Hotel Pleasanton which are indeed grand buildings. There are numerous the ares and all very nice as we have been to a number

We also took a trip through "Chinatown," so called because it is a town for itself and has nearly 60,000 Chinese inhabitants. They have several large Chinese theatres and a new joss house, which cost a large amount of money. We attended one of their performances at their principal theatre and it was a funny sight to see how they go through a play Their orchestra all sit flat on the stage floor, in back of the performers and such queer instruments and noisy playing—enough to set anyone wild. The theatre is large and the stage has no scenery nor drop curtain All perform on an open stage.

The weather last week was quite pleasant, but the past three days it has been raining They have nice markets here and you can buy all sorts of fruits, plenty of oranges and lemons and very very cheap We shall soon have ripe strawberries in market

Our next trip will be to Portland Ore., another long journey, but we intend taking that by boat, which is a two and a half days' ride.

A Brave Man Shrinks.

"How's this? You said you intended to propose to Miss Cumminger this evening, and here you are back from Oolack. She surely didn't refuse you?"

"Now, I didn't propose. I concluded to postpone matters."

"Now, see here, old boy, you don't say that you're yaller on the girls? Here I am losing such a stake! You ought to have more backbone."

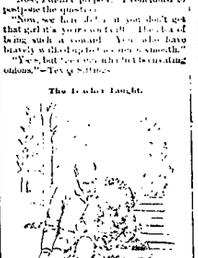
The Teacher Taught.



"Have you learned much German, Tommy, with your new governess?"

"No, but the freedom's learned lots of English"—Harper's Bazar.

He Was Too Funny.

He was a vagabond, all over and mumblatakably a vagabond, and he made no effort to conceal it, but he was not without a show of the humorous. He rang a door bell on Jefferson avenue and the man of the house answered it

"Well," inquired the gentleman, "what will you have?"

Anything most, and then leave something I haven't got now," he replied good humoredly.

"Indeed!" gasped the gentleman, quite knocked out by that kind of wit

"Yes, indeed," said the vagbo, "that I particularly want a job."

The gentleman was rather by this time prepossessed in his favor.

"What kind of a job," he asked

"Any kind—chopping wood, hoeing taters, shoving a lawn, shoveling coals, tending school, driving a street car, collecting a bank or anything else that is honest and remunerative."

"Can you do any of those things?" queried the gentleman in surprise.

"No, sir—that is to say, I never tried to."

"Well, what in thunder do you want the job for?" and the gentleman fell off several points.

"For a friend of mine, who is"——

There was a dull thud, followed by one, or two unbiblical dull thuds, and the joker locked himself upon the floor of the steps and sighed loudly.—Detroit Free Press.

Natural Distrust.

It is an old story of the man who said, when he was offered less than sterling silver to run away on an engagement, "If my last cup was ten, I'll take coffee if it was coffee, I'll take tea," but it may still serve to illustrate practical wisdom as well as impudence Another learner from experience figures in the following anecdote

Two amateur sportsmen had gone out together for a day's shooting and began operations by attempting to load their guns.

"See here," said one of them, pausing in the act, "which do you put in first, powder or shot?"

"Why, powder, of course" returned his friend.

"Oh, do you?" was the reply. "Then I don't!"—Youth's Companion.

And Lindley Murray Wept.

To a Park row waiter belongs the proud distinction of uttering what is probably the most ungrammatical sentence ever evolved from the brain of illiterate man.

Saturday afternoon an old man took his seat at the table and gave his usual order. He now and rather coss hardened plate toaster.

"Waiter," he piped, as the dishes were slammed down before him, "this beef isn't sufficiently underdone."

With a smile of contempt the servitor bore the viands back to the kitchen with him and returned a moment later without having changed them.

"Say, old goat," he hissed through his clenched teeth, "you ain't got no beef what's underdone here."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Practical.

It is related of Siebenkas, an eminent German scholar, that having for his meal but one of his beautiful imagintives to his wife, who appeared to be listening with rapt breath and eyelids red from use, he closed the book with inward satisfaction at the completion of his labors, only to hear the shriek of his better half exclaim

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

Mr. Cage and shipman, of Alexandria, Va., write: Considering a remarkable cure of rheumatism there as follows: "The wife of Mr. Wm. Pruitt, the Postmaster here had been laid ridden with rheumatism for several years. She could get nothing to do her good We sold her a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and she was completely cured by the use We refer any one to her to verify this statement 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists

Short Rations.

The Widow Fledjack keeps a boarding house in Harlem, and we regret to say that she does not give her boarders as much as they would like to consume, in particular, appears to grumbling about the fare. A few days ago she gave Slim a very small piece of boiled ox, but instead of eating it he held his arms akimbo and looked at it, like Napoleon at St. Helena.

"Why don't you eat your steak?" asked the Widow Fledjack.

"Waiting for you."

"Then it, then"

"I am afraid to."

"Why?"

Another Grain Blockade at Kansas City—Local and Personal News Gathered at the Shops.

A dispatch from Kansas City today says Another grain blockade is on in Kansas City. The Burlington has given notice that it can not receive any more grain. Orders were issued Wednesday to stop shipping to or via Kansas City on account of the blockade. The grain, especially corn, has been coming to Kansas City at the rate of fifty or sixty cars a day and the road had been able to get rid of only about twenty-five cars. There were 130 cars in the yard at this point yesterday and as the working capacity is only 100 cars and the cars were still coming it resulted in a blockade. The cars are being side tracked west of here and a large number of cars are being held between this city and St. Joseph. It is impossible to tell how long the blockade will last, but the Burlington people do not expect to get clear for a week at least. So far as known yesterday the other roads are not in any danger of being blockaded and they claim that they will be able to keep open.

NOTICED IT THE VILLARD SCHEME.

Henry Villard, the financier, was in St Paul yesterday. After speaking of the advantages gained by the recent changes in the Northern Pacific and Wisconsin Central, he was asked "What about the rumored consolidation between your lines and the Baltimore and Ohio and how long will it be before the Northern Pacific will be running a transcontinental line from the Pacific coast to New York?"

"Well," replied Mr. Villard, "I am fifty-seven years old and have seen many great changes in the development of this country. Perhaps, if I live to be one hundred, the scheme of which you speak of may be carried out, but there is certainly nothing at the present to indicate any consolidation between the companies you mention."

The child of Conductor Elliott, of the Nickel Plate, is seriously ill.

John Waldemann, of the Pittsburg boiler shop, is sick and off duty.

Christian Bruns, of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, is sick and off duty.

H. F. Johnson, the axle turner in the Pittsburg car shop, has returned to work.

Nickel Plate Conductor Sunley resumed his run yesterday after a brief vacation.

Engineer J. B. Leach, of the Pittsburg, off duty a few days, resumed his run today.

Claim Agent F. L. Richardson, of the Pittsburg, went to Dunkirk, Ohio, last evening.

Engineers M. J. Baughman and William Haniel, of the Nickel Plate, are on the sick list

J. Murphy, a boilermaker employed by the Wabash, has recovered from his recent illness.

Wesley Marshall, of the Pittsburg car shop, has gone to Ohio to attend his father's funeral.

J. T. Leach, of the Pittsburg boiler shop, is off duty today attending the funeral of a friend.

Pittsburg Fireman M. H. Larimore has gone to Lima, Ohio, his old home, to spend a few days.

A. H. Polhamus, road foreman of engineers on the Pittsburg, went to Chicago this morning

J. Mativ, the watchman in the Pittsburg lumber yards, is off duty on account of sickness in his family.

Nickel Plate Conductor Taylor, who was slightly injured at Chicago yesterday morning, returned home last evening.

W. T. Jackson, the Pittsburg passenger engineer who was sick over a month, reported for duty this morning.

Conductor Beach, on the Falls branch of the New York Central road, has had a peculiar experience Four times within eighteen months his train has been wrecked, but in each case it happened that Mr. Beach was transferred to another run.

Tine Kretsinger returned to his work in the Pittsburg car shop this morning, after an absence on account of sickness.

Charles Sunderland, the Pittsburg machinist, is very happy today. His wife presented him with a fine boy last evening.

The men in the Pittsburg car shops commenced working thirteen hours a day this week. Heretofore they worked ten hours.

Nickel Plate Fireman Gerry Weisell is off duty nursing an injured eye. He was struck by a piece of coal while out on his run yesterday.

A number of trainmen from Bellevue, Ohio, will attend the trainmen's ball tonight, accompanied by their wives. A special train will bring them to this city and take them home.

D. J. Mackey, president of the Evansville roads, has purchased the old Marine hospital at Evansville, and, it is said, will convert it into a railroad hospital for all the Mackey roads.

Mac Tower, of the Pittsburg machine shop, received a telegram last evening, from Plymouth, announcing the death of his aunt. Mr. Tower and his two children will go to Plymouth tomorrow to attend the funeral.

The Haskell & Barker car works, at Michigan City, on Monday commenced on a contract to build five hundred cars for the Chicago and Northwestern, all to be equipped with automatic steel couplers and air brakes.

The Plymouth accommodation, which leaves this city for the west at 4 o'clock each day, has received the sobriquet of "The Jag Train," so called because of the number of patients it lands at the Plymouth institute.

Nickel Plate Engineer Jerre Moriarity, who is on the committee of arrangements for the trainmen's ball, has been off duty a couple of days completing arrangements. The ball will be given this evening at Randall's hall.

Stephen Schallenberger, the foreman of the Pittsburg car inspectors, found a burly tramp in a coach standing on the sidetrack at the depot this morning. The fellow was asleep and had evidently been there all night. He was promptly "fired."

The men in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, this morning commenced work upon the frames for twenty-five of the new style class X engines, the largest engines ever constructed in the Fort Wayne shops. They are designed for passenger service.

Horace H. Tucker, for many years general freight agent of the Illinois Central railroad and for thirty years an employe of that company, has received an unofficial notification from President Stuyvesant Fish that his resignation will shortly be officially requested.

Yesterday William J. Heinlin, the veteran machinist in the Wabash shops, resigned his position. He was the foreman of the truck gang. Mr. Heinlin has worked for the company for forty years, is stout and hearty and his resignation at this time is a surprise to his friends.

The Nickel Plate officials went to Chicago and Stony Island yesterday, after inspecting the company's property in this city. In the party which left this city were Lewis Williams, general superintendent; C. D. Gorham, division superintendent; A. S. Williams, superintendent of telegraph wires, and Trainmaster S. K. Blair.

An order has been issued by the management of the New York Central road to its employes directing them to flag any train that is soon to be following a preceding train within ten minutes. The value of the order is shown in the fact that on the line, the first week the order was in effect, an average of three trains a day were flagged for running too close to the preceding one.

Dick Ross, who is employed in a drug store at Coesse, called at the office today to deny the report published in the city papers that he is to marry a young lady living at Coesse or Columbia City. He says there is no truth whatever in the published story about his marriage. He says he has not been keeping company with any lady living at either of the above places. The report evidently got into the paper by some malicious person handing the item to one of the reporters.

David L. Judy, of the Pittsburg machine shop, was twenty-one years old yesterday. In the evening a number of the young man's friends met at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Judy, and aided in making the anniversary a memorable one to David. The affair was managed quietly by the young man's parents and he was taken completely by surprise.

Indianapolis Journal: "The new and elegant vestibuled cars which the congressional party traveled in are to be placed at once on the Pennsylvania lines, taking the place of some of the old Pullman cars now in use on these lines. The dining cars which belong to these trains are said to be the most elegant and complete in every respect ever turned out at the Pullman car works."

THE INDIANA ALLIANCE.

The State Meeting Passes Resolutions and Elects Officers.

The Indiana state Farmers' alliance, with 100 delegates, began a two days' session in Knights of Labor hall, Bank block, yesterday. D. N. Stough, of Lagrange, presided, and W. A. Kelsey was secretary. A good deal of the time of the session yesterday was taken up with internal affairs of the organizations. The meeting was held with closed doors, barred against reporters. The following officers were elected: President, S. J. Fisher, vice president, J. H. Buster, of Adams township; secretary, W. E. Berlin, of Nappanee; treasurer, J. S. Schrader, of Columbia City, executive committee, D. A. Cline, of Huntington; Frank Smith, of Whitley county, John Shives, of Allen county, lecturer, J. D. Gloyd, of Perry township; delegates to the national alliance, which meets at Chicago next year, Fred Hockemeyer and W. A. Kelsey, alternates, J. F. Keefer and I. B. McDonald.

The following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That the Indiana state Farmers' alliance in annual convention at Fort Wayne, Indiana, this 25th day of February, 1892, do hereby reaffirm our adherence to the following platform of principles and purposes, to wit:

Section 1. The object of this alliance should be to promote the best interests of our agricultural people in a practical and legitimate way. To the attainment of the home sentiment with all its elements of nobleness; by inputting the use of such educational provisions made by the state for the intellectual promotion of agriculture, and the use of the best moral, intellectual, agricultural and political literature of the times in our farm houses; by a full and free discussion of blood, theory of breeding, treatment of stock, kind of grasses, coat of production, transportation, home or foreign markets, supply and demand, and all other questions relating to the protection and promotion of agriculture.

Sec. 2. To co-operate in buying and selling for the purpose of securing an exchange of commodities with the least possible tax on interchange.

Sec. 3. To secure such representation in the state and the national legislatures as the importance of the agricultural interests warrant; to secure the strict legislative control of railroads in the interests of equity and justice to the public; to crush out monopolies of every form, whether inland, transportation or commerce; to crush out the manufacture of and traffic in adulterated food products, to protect the live stock interests of the country against contagious diseases and to protect and foster agricultural interests in every way feasible and just.

Resolved, That the farmers' alliance is intended to be an organization and association for educational purposes, in this, that the farming and laboring classes can not be too well educated to work out the great problem of life. The betterment of all classes and conditions is the aim and purpose of the alliance.

Resolved, That the Indiana farmers' alliance does not propose to meddle in partisan politics or sectarian creeds. That each and every member should exercise their own views politically and religiously, as he or she may see proper.

Resolved, That the farmers' alliance favors all reforms which shall better the condition of each and every tax payer in the state and nation, and to that end we will make the very best efforts in that direction.

Resolved, That the farmers' alliance is not organized to break down any fair dealing and legitimate trade of the country, but to adopt means to protect the producing classes of the whole country.

Resolved. That this convention does return thanks to Captain W. A. Kelsey for his very faithful, honest and loyal services as secretary of the state alliance for the past years of his service

Resolved, That the Indiana State Farmers' alliance is in favor of such legislation by our national congress as shall do equal and exact justice to the producing classes of the country, and the alliance is in favor of some such a law as is contemplated by what is known as the Butterworth bill to regulate "option" dealings and trusts.

La Grippe Successfully Treated.

"I have just recovered from a second attack of the grip this year," says Mr. Jas O Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexia, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed a little over two days, against ten days for the first attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy, as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being 'struck' with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting down." 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

HIS DILEMMA.

But There Was a Man in the Car Who Wanted Ten Two Dollars.

"Fare, please!" said the conductor of a South Side street car one day last week to a passenger who was clinging to a strap.

The passenger took out his pocketbook, looked through it, and produced a ten-dollar bill

"It's the smallest I have," he said.

"I can't change it," rejoined the conductor gruffly. "If you expect to ride you ought to go prepared to pay."

"I am prepared to pay, sir. You're not prepared to make change—that's all."

"The company doesn't expect me to make change for ten dollars. I couldn't do it anyhow. I haven't ten dollars about me."

"Then what's to be done? I've got to ride."

"You've got to pay for it if you do."

"I've offered to pay you."

"And I've told you I can't change that bill. You turn out something smaller than that or get off."

"I have told you, my friend, that I haven't anything smaller."

"Then get off."

The conductor reached up to pull the bell rope.

"Hold on!"

With the fire of honest indignation blazing in his eyes the man turned to his fellow passengers.

"Gentlemen," he said, "it's a shame to put a man off a car when he has plenty of money to pay his fare and is willing to pay it. This conductor makes me get off car. I depend on your love of fair play to help me see that justice is done. Just as sure as he puts me off I shall use this road for damage, and I'll need you for witnesses."

"There's an easier way out of it than that," suggested a sympathetic man in one corner of the car, taking out his pocketbook. "I'll lend you five cents, and it doesn't make any difference whether you ever pay me or not."

"No, no," replied the other, struck by an idea, "that I shall be obliged if you will give me change for ten dollars Any kind will do."

The sympathetic man in the corner counted out small bills and silver coins to the amount of ten dollars, handed them over and took the bill in exchange. The passenger clinging to the strap paid his fare, rode a few blocks farther and got off.

And now the sympathetic man is busier for him with that bill in his eye and something heavy in his right hand coat pocket. The ten dollar bill was a counterfeit.—Chicago Tribune.

In Danger.

It is a prevailing impression that a majority of Englishmen drop their h's, but though no such sweeping statement can be made, the accusation does very well as an occasional missile in time of need. "Why," said a blunt Englishman to an American lady, "I didn't think you were an American. You don't talk through your nose." "And you," she responded sweetly, "are not in the least like an Englishman. You don't drop your h's!"

When the Dean of Armagh was summoned to Whitehall to preach in the Chapel Royal, Dr. Knox raffled him on the precarious position involved. "Mr. Dean," said he, "you must be very careful when you get to Whitehall. Remember it was there that King Charles lost his head."

The dean went to Whitehall, preached his sermon and returned, and then capped his brother prelates little joke.

"My lord," said he, "I well nigh suffered a worse fate than the king's. The verger in the Chapel Royal undertook to instruct me in the proper method of making my appearance. 'First,' said he, 'I take the verger up to their places, and then, after they are seated, I returns for you, sir, and conducts you to the halter!'"—Youth's Companion.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, torpid liver, constipation, etc., I feel that I can say nothing else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

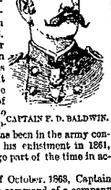
An interesting event occurred at the Central Christian church last evening. The Young Ladies' Society of Christian Endeavor gave a supper from 5 to 7:30 p. m., when Mrs. Babcock preached a powerful sermon on the text "None of These Things Move Me," making it the boast of those who had heard so much preaching and pleading and yet did not yield to Christ This was her farewell sermon. After the sermon supper was served and those who remained after the supper were gladdened to hear four more persons confess Christ and Mrs. Babcock was persuaded to speak again this evening, when the ordinance of baptism will be administered.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

A Medal Given to a Brave Soldier of the Civil War.



CAPTAIN F. D. BALDWIN.

Captain Frank D. Baldwin, of the Fifth infantry, U. S. A., is an example of the law's delay, or rather the federal government's. He won a medal in 1868, won it again or won another in 1864, and receives it now in 1892. It adds not a little to the interest of the occasion to learn that Captain Baldwin has been in the army continuously since his enlistment in 1861, and a very large part of the time in active service.

On the 5th of October, 1868, Captain Baldwin was in command of a company holding a stockade near Murfreesboro, Tenn. General Wheeler, now a member of congress, attacked it with a force of some thousands, including artillery, yet Captain Baldwin held the stockade for two hours—in fact, until it was destroyed by the artillery. Again, in 1864, July 20, the Confederates made an assault, and Captain Baldwin's regiment made a counter-charge. He greatly distinguished himself and captured the Confederate regiment's flag. The officers and men of the company the two led recently petitioned for and congress voted a medal. It is of cannon bronze and bears this inscription:

THE CONGRESS
TO CAPT. FRANK D. BALDWIN,
5th U.S. Inf'y, for Distinguished Bravery
At the Battle of Peach Tree Creek, Ga.
July 20, 1864.

The presentation was made by General Nelson A. Miles at his headquarters, in the Pullman building, Chicago, in the presence of a small company of officers. General Miles delivered a very interesting address. Captain Baldwin served with great bravery and ability in several Indian campaigns, but has recently been stationed at army headquarters in Chicago as inspector of rifle practice.

Come to the Manageric Social this evening, at the English Lutheran church.

WILL GET POINTERS.

William Mayer to Attend the Big League Meeting in New York.

Next Monday and Tuesday the big base ball league meeting will be held at New York city, and it is expected that it will be one of the most important meetings ever held The minor leagues, which have heretofore received no protection from the big league, will ask for recognition. It is the intention of William Meyer, of this city, to represent the proposed Indiana state league, and he will leave for New York Saturday evening for that purpose. Mr Robison, one of the owners of the Fort Wayne street railway, is also president of the Cleveland base ball club, and will be present at the meeting

We would respectfully call the attention of our readers to the second annual statement of the American Casualty Insurance and Security company, Baltimore City, Maryland, published on the local page of this paper. The cash paid up capital of this company is $1,000,000, while its total assets are $2,208,509.07. Messrs. Schrader & Wilson, of this city, are the local agents of this most excellent company. This company does a general employers' liability insurance and individual accident business in this city

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 18, 1892.

I, James F. Pierce, superintendent of insurance, hereby certify, that, after a thorough and complete examination of the assets and liabilities of the American Casualty Insurance and Security Company of Baltimore City, made by the examiners appointed on behalf of the department as of the 31st day of December, 1891, I find the financial condition of said company to be as follows:

Total Assets $2,208,509.07
Total Liabilities, including $1,000,000 capital stock 1,134,746.38
Surplus beyond all liabilities 74,094.56

The net surplus shown in the company's statement is $1,000,000, while on the above basis it is $74,094.56, the difference being caused by increasing the unearned premiums according to the new law of 1891.

The Maryland Commissioner does not require that the rating by persons taking out policies on steam boilers for inspection shall be included in the premiums given as a part of the basis for the calculation of the reserve. This department so includes it, and the reserve now stands, as it includes the unpaid commissions on reserve and the additions to the reserve, is caused by adverse selection.

I have also added a further liability to unpaid losses of $15,000, to cover the cost of adjustment of outstanding losses until finally settled, judicially or otherwise.

Signed) JAMES F. PIERCE,
Superintendent.
